The Grave.

By MONTGOMERY.
There is a calm for those who weep,
A rest for weary pilgrims found;
They softly lie and sweetly sleep,
Low in the ground.
The storm that wrecks the wintry sky,
Nor more disturbs their deep repose;
No summer evening breeze might That stirs the rose.

I long to lay this painful head,
To slumber in this dreamy bed,
From all my toil.

For misery state me at my birth,
At each one's helpless in the wild;
I perish, oh my mother Earth!
Take home thy child.

On thy dear lap these limbs recline, Shall gently moulder into thee;
Nor leave one wretched trace behind Reminding me.

Heard a strange loud afflictive noise,
As mine, my brain ran wild with joy;
Oh, what are those whose voices I hear?
I am the grave!

The grave, that never sleeps before,
Hath found at length a tongue to roar;
Oh, listen! I will speak no more;
Be silent, pray!

Alas, thou wretch of hope forlorn,
A victim of consuming care;
Is thy distracted conscience torn By fell despair?

Do foul misdeeds of former times
Wring with remorse thy guilty breast?
And glooms of infelicitous crimes Haunt thy dark soul?

Leashed by the forces of the mind, (dost thou)
From wrath and vengeance wouldst thou Alas! think not, hope not, fool to find A friend in me.

Beyond the terrors of the tomb,
By power of tongue to tell;
By the dread accents of the dead,
By oath and hell.

I charge thee live! repent and pray,
In dust thou infamy dost dye;
There yet is room for thy way,
And hope for thee.

Art thou a mourner? Hast thou known The joy of innocent delights, Enchering days forever flown,
And tranquil nights?

Oh live! and die thy cheerful will,
The sweet remembrance of the past;
Rejoice on heaven's unchanging hill,
For peace at last.

Art thou a wanderer? Hast thou seen Deceitful temptations of the world?
A shipwrecked sufferer, hast thou been Misfortune's mark?

Live! live! of winds and waves the sport,
Of evil spirits' lowly throng;
Live! live! and seek a sheltering port,
A quiet home.

To friendship didst thou trust thy fate,
And was thy friend a deadly foe;
Was social life thy ruin?
A woe to thee!

Live! and repine not o'er his loss,
A loss unworthy to be told;
Thou hast met woe's fiercest foe,
For friendship's gold.

Seek the true treasure, wisdom found,
Of power the forest giant to calm,
And soothe the bosom's deepest wound,
With heavenly balm.

Did woman's charms the youth beguile,
And did the fickle's faith prove?
Hast thou betrayed thy soul to guile,
And sold thy love?

Live! 'Tis a false love leading fire;
It often leads to ruin's dark den;
Thou'lt find a foe with wild desire,
And kills the heart.

Thou'lt yet think know no sweeter, how dear,
To rest on listening love's ear;
To seek—and find a love and fear
Thou'lt repine.

A woe! 'Tis a false love that warms the breast, A love that never will prove;
Thou'lt yet think know no sweeter, how dear,
To seek—and find a love and fear
Thou'lt repine.

Thou'lt yet think know no sweeter, how dear,
To seek—and find a love and fear
Thou'lt repine.

Thou'lt yet think know no sweeter, how dear,
To seek—and find a love and fear
Thou'lt repine.

Thou'lt yet think know no sweeter, how dear,
To seek—and find a love and fear
Thou'lt repine.

Thou'lt yet think know no sweeter, how dear,
To seek—and find a love and fear
Thou'lt repine.

The soul of man is a spark of fire,
God's glorious spirit is a flame;
In heaven's eternal sphere it glows,
A radiant light.

The sun is but a spark of fire,
A transient meteor in the sky;
The soul, immortal as its birth,
Shall never die.

MR. ADAMS ADDRESS.
MR. ADAMS, a Mormon Missionary, and a man of decided talent, recently delivered two addresses to our citizens from the door of the State House. The first was devoted to religious doctrines, and the second to Mormon persecutions.

The last Register gives what it states to be the best and most interesting language in the mouth of Mr. Adams which he never used. Mr. Adams did not mention the Sangamo Journal in his speech—he never asserted that the last number of the Register was the work of the wicked. The remarks published in the Register as coming from him on this sub ject, he never used. The report of his address, therefore, as published in the Register, is false, badly false, and known to be so by the hundreds of citizens who heard it.

The Register makes Mr. Adams say that he approved of the conduct of the Governor in ordering the arrest of Smith.
The Register makes him say that he view in this matter. I say that a discretion lies with the Governor—that the Governor of Missouri refused to give up some individuals in that State, who had committed outrages on the rights of the citizens of Missouri, and that the Governor of the Missouri State had dis cretionary power in relation to the Missouri question. All the movements in this affair; from the issuing of the writ, down to the arrest of Smith, were the work of Mr.
Adams in the Register; show that it was got up by loco foci to effect the coming election. Our opponents can rarely suffer an election to be decided on the ground of principles. They prefer to rely upon some trick—some scheme—for success.

ARREST OF SMITH.
The recent proceedings in reference to John Smith have called forth a very able and interesting article in the Whig Journal—for the purpose of securing the success of the whigs at the coming election. It is strange the Register would hazard its well established reputation for veracity, by an insinuation of so flimsy a character.

In what a ridiculous position does the Register place its friends! The execu tive of Missouri, who is presumed from the article to be a whig, is charged with tyranny and discrimination, is the duke of a sort in Illinois, composed of his political opponents! The executive of our own State, concerning whom the same presumption would be (however unwarranted) made to his credit, is accused of inaccuracy! is also created by the same manoeuvre, and forced to comply with their secret designs! A grand jury, hundreds of miles distant, is also made to figure, and the whole machinery of the State is set on foot, to persecute and govern, is brought into the most beautiful operation by the agency of a few individuals! A most flattering com pliment to the penetration of its own friends, and a most complete exposure of its own weakness, and of the power of the State, to be pulled, and charged, and humbled, with their eyes wide open, by the machinations of a few individuals.

The statement continues to gleam a upon its face, and is a most absurd for even a loco loco to believe the true version is most probably the Illinois has heretofore been considered a strong loco loco State, and is rapidly improving in political importance in con sequence of a succession of representatives in Congress. The Legislature of last winter made a prodigious effort by law gain, and intrigue and gerrymandering to establish its future reputation in the national arena, and to secure, if possible, an entire loco loco representation in Congress. But since that period it has been discovered that although they could furnish a Dictator, who could rule the legislature, they could not supply seven men of ability to manage the loco loco Districts—that though they could furnish an entire loco loco representation in Congress. But since that period it has
