Ruins of former Cities.—A gest enange he has travelled over a large portion of the Indian country in Northern Texas, and the country in Northern Texas, and the country in Northern Texas, and the Pacific informs the editor of the Houston Telegraph that there are vestigates of market etities and ancient cities and ancient temples on the Kio Puerco, and Colorado of the West. On one/of the branches of the Rio Puerco, a few days travel from Santa Fe, there is an immense pile of aims that appears to have been an ancient temple. The building occupies nearly an aare of ground—prints of well are still standing, consisting of large blocks of lime-stone, regularly heway, and lad in cement. The ruind bear a general resemblance to those of Palicingue or Otolius. There are fast my similar ruins on the Colorado of the West, which empties into the Californian Guilf. Neither the Indians in the vicinity, nor the oldest Spanish settles of the mearest shittements, can give any account of the origin of these buildings.

New Mode of Grafting. Mr. Downing, of Newburg, has lately practised with success, a new mode of grafting, the piper being to test the quality of fruits raised from seeds in a shorter period than would be possible by permitting, such seedings to stand until their natural time of bearing.

The method is, to put the top of a show The method is, to put the top of a shoot from a see ling tree, or a new variety, when it is desirable to procure a specimen of the frait immediately, upon the top of a thrifty shoot of a midding aged and fruit-bearing tree: the process being simply to take thrifty shoots, about a quarter of an iach ir diameter, and cut them in a slanting manner clear through, so as to detach about four inches of the top from detach about four inches of the top from the rest, making the line of the angle as nout an inche-the stock being cut in the same manner. The backs are then care fully united, and bound up with yarnevering the whole with grating wax, to exclude the air. By this mode, fruit may be obtained in a short period, so as to test as value at an early day; the operation being simple, with scarcely a fear of failure.—Hart. Magazine.
