Joseph Smith Esq.

Sir,—The aubscribers, the Central Committee of the National Reform Association, in accordance with a duty prescribed by their constitution, respectfully solicit an expression of your views as a candidate for public office on a subject that, as they think, vitally affects the rights and interests of their constituents. We see this singular condition of affairs that, while wealth in our country is rapidly accumulating while increasing mentions of every description are fast increasing, and while meabursty has multiplied the power of production to an insurence extent, yet with dil these national advantages, the compensation for useful lated in general theorems, and with unablantly has multiplied the power of production to an insurence extent, yet with dil these national advantages, the compensation for useful lated in general theorems, and we trace it to the monophy of the land, but the production of the land, but has a more accordance of the land, but has a continuously to the second the land, but by arresting the further sale of all lands not yet appropried as private property, and by all owing these lands hereafter to be freely occupied by those who may choose to settle on them.

We propose that the Polific lands hereafter shall not be owned, but occupied only, the occupied by those who may choose to settle on them.

We propose that the Polific lands hereafter to be freely occupied by those who may choose to settle on them.

We propose that the Polific lands hereafter to be freely occupied by those who may choose to settle on them.

This measure, we think, would gradu all from becoming possession of other land, as untiled quantity, every one may only only the right.

a limited quantity, every one may onjoy the right.

This measure, we think, would gradually establish an equilibrium betyeen the agricultural and other useful occupations, that would ensure to all full employment and fair compensation for their labor, on the lands now held as private property, and to each individual on the public lands the right to work for himself on his own premises, or for another, at his option.
