explode itself. What necessity is there for ridiculing and caricaturing the inventor of perpetual motion in What in the exhibition of the momentaine in religion or politics. It for instance, the spirit of Catholicism be as had as our "Native Americana" represent it, will it not be seen! But they will say, "we wish to set our public seal of reprobation upon such a doctrine, towgratily our own feelings and for the good of the rising generation." We will hereafter test the correctness of the position, both in tenth and sentiment. As to the expedient of such an action, the sent in the contract of the sent in the contract of the sent in the consideration, especially if they have a public character and bearing—and still more, it they are of a religious or superstituous character.

Through the whole course of universal history we can never find that violence has ultimately benefitied either the cause or the individuals engaged in it. What was gained at one mount, has been lost at another what has accrued to pride, avariee, or vanity, has been taken back with dominant of the problem to be solved, whether the violence of the most criefly mobs which ever existed, at the commencement of our Revolution, have not given at an impulse to the national feeling the animal character.

and a ringe to the national character on the whole injurious to our country. If expedient, it could be only as an example, and that example under all cases where the many in opinion, faith, or erect, differ from the few, and be mittled and to any extent! They want to the country of the coun This they cannot do. The wisest need of a family, as he advances, finus it hard to restrain in reason and be-nevolence those united to him in affec-tion and by blood—how can pursecu-ted and superstitious religionists be re-strained?

ted and superstations religiousists be re-strained?

But there is still higher considera-tions. There are such laws as profes-sedly secure the civil, political, and re-ligious liberty of every individual.— The Constitution is one of these high laws, penned in the integrity and was-dom of the highest representative au-tority. The Constitution of each State is another, itentified with the most sacred sanctions of justice. The regulitions in regard to every induc-tion into oldre under the solemnities of an eath "to promote the peace and good order of society," are a third class—and the Jast, and for the least are reason, common sense, personal are reason, common sense, personal integrity, and a stern conviction of right and wrong, which, in an cullightright and wrong with kin an ellightened community, every man but aydin a carries in his head and heart, which are directly against a violation of the peace in the violation of the rights of midwiduals.

There is another and settill higher consideration. Such exhibitions of which and lawless feeling and sentiment as those which have lately taken place in Philadelphia, filling the mole circ.

day after day with all the horrors of a sack, are entirely incompatible write the teaching of Lesus. We well know that they are in the very essence and spirit of his religion as carried out by any later and the property of the property of the property and lands
spirit of his religion as carried out by any later and the property of the property.

Out of the property ors; but we are as fully assured that it is not the principle and spirit, be he real or imaginary, of Jesus of Nazareth. "Whatsoever, ye would that men should do unto you, do yo your father in Leaven is perfect, who your latter in care is perfect wing cuseth his sun to shine upon the evil and the good, and who sendeth his rain upon the just and the unjust,"— Were these shameful transactions of the religious desperadoes of Philadelphia, whose war-cry, as they rushed to deeds of blood and slanghter, was "Spare, Oh! spare the Bible!"—were those transactions in compliance will likese technice?

but a last consideration is, that such these tenchings?

But a last consideration is, that such things defeat themselves. You will doit, you say, for the sole purpose of setting your seal of reproduction upon Catholics, and for the good of the presentation. Such things were viduals, accompanied with shouts of sorth derison, and contempt, are but controlled with shouts of sorth derison, and contempt, are but contempt, and confidence with lawless vicines which sacrifices with equal zeal, hery, and verdeance, the innocent with the guilty.

Let un a seed mots, persecution, and brow-beging. This Did it secure the triang generation and day has passed. It is a day of argument, enquiry, investigation, and experiment. Folly and absurdity will they have all had their day of reproach and persecution, and their, advocates were considered quite as-obnoxious to morality, propriety, good order, and religion, as the Roman Catholies. The fact is,—and it is the strangest thing in the world that Christians do npt see it—in universal sociity there are some of every finith and sentiment; and parsecution, by readering the individuals and faith conpictous, forms centres of conglometration. Thus, your own adage is true -The blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church, the called, the assenblers, dissenters, heroes, philantifrojoists. Very well. Why engage in tots calculated in their very nature ty defeat your object? We need not lear for a persecuted cause; it is the aculected cause that is consumed in its own heat and expires in its own emjers. Again some of those Philadelship Protestants, no doubt went from ship Protestants, no doubt went from their ritous and bloody exhibition to handy prayer, to the sanctuary, to the sacrument, and they have all, in their sixth and sentiment, to be ushered into the presence of infinite purity and sentiment, to be ushered into the presence of infinite purity and sentiment, they have preceded in an ent of blood-thirsty percention of individuals who might err in judgment, and sentiment, throw light or substantial darkness on such transactions?

To conclude, it becomes every well wisher to the peace, onder, and happiness of society, to frow upon mishiana expression of opinion, sentiment, and vengeance. He knows not, if he art is contrary part, but that he is kindling a fire which may consume either himself, posterity, or courty. The spirit of matrchy can in noway be more easily taught, imparted, and inhibed. The impression on the application of the property of the prop destroys itself; constitution, hav, jus-tice, become figments of the imagina-tion, and the reign of terror, com-sistences its carea. It may by some, nerhaps be thought proper that we wird cute the character for the in-dividuals so wantonly assailed. Net stall. A higher interest has been hear our heart, a more noble and sa-créd object before are, but interest has been that of the dearest rights of freemen, and that object the vinical has been that of the dearest rights of freemen, and that object the vinidentian of the miresty of the law, and of instite, thus wilely trampled upon and despised. The changes of, a single-balf century will astonish the world, and the past transaction will be as infunous in the eyes of the generatives they existing, as the scenes of the Salem witcherfit are in ourse. the Salem witchcraft are in onys.— Nor will it be forgotten. Universal mid can neither forget nor forgive, Le enthrones itself on eternal justice, poptring indignation and wrath upon the bad, compassion and globy upon life good.

As I came up to this city, an old woman of the Mormon faith was on board bound to I Nawroo, where her husband freaded. She was accompanied by her daughter and son-in-line, a new married gouple. I talked with the old woman about the death of the Prophet and his friends. She expressed her chire dis-belief in the story, saying it was her opinion, the Prophet and his friends.
