"MORMON DIFFICULTIES"

In the first place I will assume that the Mormons, as a people, have as good a right to occupy a part of the State of Ilhaois; as any other religious sect; subject, of course, to the I was that govern that State. The constitution of Iffit State and of the United States, guarantee to them, privileges equal to any other citizens of the State. Now, if they have committed depredations upon their neighbors by stealing, thouse or barn burging why not put the law in force against them, the same as you would, should other outlaws, commit like depredations! Not go and burn their houses, barns, stacks of grain and hay—turn their helpless women and children out into the midnight as an influence of the same and the same and the same and the same and children out into the midnight as an influence and the same and children out into the midnight as an influence and the same and the grain and asy—turn their neighbors women and shidren out into the many on the storms, to perish. By many on the Mormons for stealing, or other depreciations, that they will in most cases, either by perjayer or numerical strength, prove an ainti. If this bo true, I would ask, if there is no law in Illinois for punishing those guilty of purjury. The Mormons committing perjury, and the Anti-Mormons turning houses, Larns, &c., ret two wongs which, if put together, will never make a right. The Mormons are also that the state of the state at no distant period, and that the remaining the state at no distant period, and that the tranquility of that part of the State, near Hanceck country, associate, and incomments of the state at no distant period, and that the tranquility of that part of the State, near Hanceck country, associately requires it of glorious Declaration of Independence governed by such feelings? No, I trust they warg not.

This country, by the enlightened spirit of our institutions, is made free for all who choose to adopt it as their home. No clique or faction has a right to say to the most humble citizen (that looksy the laws) that he shall not reside in or out of this or any other State, or that he shall not are not shall not reside in or out of this or any other State, or that he shall not have free ingress or egress wherever he, in his wisdom, sees fit to immigrate fryin one part of the Union to the other. Moboracy, rioting, lynch law, and other acts of violence upon persons and property, have of late been substituted for law, which has inflicted a hasting diagracupon our own happy and free country!—The Anti-Mormons would do well to bear their own hands, and while hodding it, have been guilty of the most brutal outrage, that shand eccorded in the caulogue of crimes. Murder, arron, assault upon women and helpless children at midnight, uniler pretence of obtaining redress, when the ordinary process of law was at hand. Shame on either party who would resort to such measures for redress.

I do not wish to be understood as taking rices with offering in this matter, and enforce a proper observance of title Law, and let the guilty. Be punished in every respect, according to Law and ordinare.

wisdom says let the wicked slay the the earth for many nations to live in peace, and enjoy the little happiness allotted them without "clashing brave man, armar," to terrify cowards or whet the appetites of monaters. The cospel whispers peace. Our great-ness consists of our faith, our union and our submission. The power that made Nauvoo; that gathered thousands from various climes and kingdoms; that reared the Temple; and that whispers to is now, "peace be still and see the salvation of God," can guide us to bring forth a better city, an hundred fold of gathering, and hre times as good a temple, in five years, where demagogues will not deceive us for our votes, and then connive at our extermination; yea; uside from vexations lawsuits, we can enjoy more life in five years, than the world has, can, or will realize while money buys judgment, and popularity holds the destinies of the people. Vice and virtue are the extremes of greatness; the former descends to degradation, and the latter exalts to glory, and that nation is upon the brink of ruin which is so far lost to decorum, that it refuses to punish sin. The secrets of this nation will be searched out with candles, and wo to the blood stained mansions of misery! Thine is the shape I've seen in dream Anne, is the single Free seen in decay.

Yet never met at evening parties,
Like realizesh and blood figerens,
Mixed withjeelestial, like Aduate'a.
There's nothing of the sy ph or gnome
L. actly in thy form's expansion,
But, it would deck the humblest home.
And beautify the proudest mansion.

And beautify the proudest manison. To dirt with for a mouth or year.

One might select a different figure, Less size, less heart, of course less det. Withtrather less of health and sigo. But for a friend—ye gold/a wive.

To live for, fight for, love forever, I never saw in all my life.

One near so perfect—never, never!

I am in carnest—so, don't faugh,
Though precious, merry, darling cre
Id rather see thy sunies by balf.
Irradiate each, winsome feature,
Than all the splendid sights, that night
Reveals beneath fier slarry glories,
Or, stepped in days most lovely light,
The scene of o'd lifecies cories.

The scenes of oil fireties stories.
With thee companioned, one might 20.
Contentitiough life's low'vale of s.
And, blessed at pregent, early to know
But little of the dim to morriow.
Yet fare thee will 'this win for me
To conjurate joy's glowing vision,
Ny last thought is a sigh for thee,
And thine a smile of sweet derision.
