In the course of his harangue, gua-ne was incidentally alluded to as a powerful agent in quickening the growth of pants and the effects of both were displayed in such glowing anginge that the auditory soon ima-gined themselves standing in the mids-ground of the standing in the mids-ton field and endeavoring to measure the height of the grain, before it was not of reich. The whole assembly were in a fine state of euthusiasm, and work of the state of euthusiasm, and work of the state of euthusiasm, and standing eyes, when a plain looking old furner arrose, and with apparently nuch liftidence, begged leave to confirm the centurer's statements, by the relatiop ecturer's statements, by the relation of an incident which he had recently witnessed, and by which he had been

According ly we agreed to shut him up at high ly we agreed to shut him up at night in the barn. This answered very well in the barn. This answered very well for a while, but he grow worso again will finally I was obliged to shut him up every night at sondown.

Well, one night while Tommy was roosting with the cattle, and I was in bod, there came on a temendous thunder storm. It lightened sharp e-mugh to put out a name's eyes, and thundered so loud that it made the hoise rable like a ganer drum. Feeling rather uneasy about the hoy, I got up early in the morning, and went out to see how he fared. As I was going to the barn, I are ta man most cight to the barn, I are ta man most cight on the barn, I are ta man most cight. of how he fared. As I was going be barn, I met a man most eight high coming towards me. I new and seen such a tall critter in all life before, and I begun to feel sor searable at having him about my pieces.

Hallad says 1, as soon as I could speak, who are you? and what are you doing in my barn yard?
The strange looking animal answered in a little, squeaking child's voice, why, father, it's me, don't you know Tommy?

Tonny?
Yon, says I; why, Ton, how on corth did you get stretched out so long in one night? why, you're grown as tall as all out doors; don't you know tall as all out doors; non-it?

Why, yes futtier, says he, I spose I have, for last night1 slepp on them bags of Guano you put in the barn, and that and the lightning together just did the business.

The effect of this story upon the audience was indeed electric. Peal upon peal of laughter followed, the people went off every way, and the next day the lecturer, upon electricity and guano was among the missing.

Immense Army.—Among the papers left by a French general lately in the United States, and who was formerly attached to the grand army of-Blond parte which passed the Niemen for Russia, was found a list of that army, which, in a few short months, perished by the climate and the shock of arms:

Toles, 00,000; Savois, 30,000; Austrians, 30,000; Bavarians, 30,000; Prussians, 20,000; Westphalians, 20,000; Wurteinbergers, 3,000; Badeners, 2,000; Danistatiers, 4,000; Gottla and Wiesnart 2,000; Wurtelung and Franconis, 5,000; Meethenburg, Nassau and Small Princes, 5,000; Italians and Nenpolitans, 20,000; Spanish and Portinguese, 4,000; Swiss, 10,000; Ryench, 260,000; including 60,000 cavalry, besides 40,000; herses, artillery and train, consisting of 11200 pieces of cannon? Total, 493,000, with the symme, and other followers of the the, women, and other followers of the army, making a grand total of 526,000 persons—the largest arrivy ever concentrated at any period of history. The number of Russians destroyed in this campaign exceeded 200,000. Thus over 600,000 perished to grantly seemant.
